

ABSTRACT

A system for backing up data on a wireless telephone having a data store containing a user's personal information. A method and application are provided.